All residents of Presidio of Monterey or POM Annex and interested civilian employees may attend.

Celebration honors Lt. Gen. Moore

North-South Road will become Gen. Moore Boulevard

The installation will rename North-South Road to Gen. Jim Moore Boulevard during a ceremony, Saturday, 1 p.m., at the Drill Sgt. Statue by the main Post Chapel on North-South Road.

Col. Daniel Devlin, commandant of Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center and commander of DLIFLC and Presidio of Monterey, is hosting the ceremony. Guest speakers are Leon Panetta, former congressman and chief of staff for President Clinton;

Rep. Sam Farr, D-Carmel; and retired Lt. Gen. Robert Ord III.

Moore served as a brigade commander at Fort Ord as a colonel from 1973-1976. He was a brigade commander when Fort Ord was an infantry basic training center, and commander of another brigade when Fort Ord transitioned from a basic training center to home of the reactivated the 7th Infantry Division. He was Fort Ord and 7th ID commanding general 1982 to 1985.

Events mark observance of Martin Luther King Jr. Day

The Presidio of Monterey's Equal Opportunity Office sponsored a number of events to observe Martin Luther King Jr. Day, Jan. 17.

The EO Office sent out a Power Point presentation reflecting the life, works and history King and to all of the installation on e-mail.

A display was also set-up at the Troop Store at the Presidio Post Exchange and Sgt. 1st Class Alfredo Lino, Presidio's equal opportunity advisor, observed a fifth grade social studies class at Marshall Elementary School as the class celebrated Martin Luther King Jr. Day.

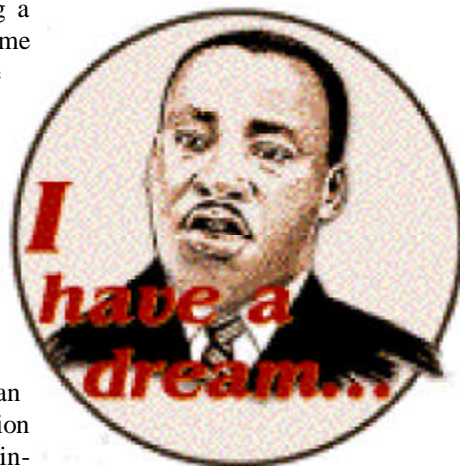

An essay contest on the topic "Martin Luther King Jr. Day, What it Means to Me" was also part of the installation's observance.

The winner, Army Lt. Col. John Phelps, Staff Judge Advocate's office, will be presented a Commander's Coin of Excellence and Certificate of Achievement during a future monthly awards ceremony. The following is his winning essay:

Martin Luther King Jr. on "Character"

"...a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character." I am always reminded on Martin Luther King Day of his own words describing a dream that we Americans would some day evolve to a point where people are described and defined in terms of their character. As an institution, our Army has played a vital role in this evolution. Although it is unquestionably true that our Army's past and present are marred by policies and incidents where soldiers were judged by the color of their skin, it is equally true that the irrefutable character of the American soldier forced an often reluctant nation to confront Martin Luther King's principled truth. That truth is: men and women of all colors and backgrounds have the capacity to achieve greatness in the sacrifice of their very lives to advance the sacred ideals of human dignity. Every soldier in uniform today carried a reminder of that truth. Take a fresh look at the Army Values card or dogtag. You'll find the content of character upon which you and I should judge ourselves and that we must apply as we evaluate one another. It is fitting that we honor Martin Luther King not only by pausing to remember him on this day, but by living his dream every day in the service of a nation he so profoundly served.

Residents urged to participate in crime prevention programs

Hello all,

Many of you were notified through the MPUSD Parent Alert about a man exposing himself to four older students who were playing Sunday afternoon on the playground of Marshall School. The children told their parents who notified both the Federal Police and the Seaside Police. The Federal Police and school officials have swept the adjacent areas around Marshall and Stilwell schools. Police patrols will increase around the school facilities during the weekends and holidays.

Upon investigation we discovered that a similar incident happened in Oct. 99, however, was reported in Dec. 99. With this news many concerns come up about Fort Ord being an open post, lack of gate guards, etc. The truth of the matter is that we must be vigilant for each other. The most secure communities in the country are only secure because the neighbors care for each other and watch out for each other. That's why the Neighborhood Watch and the McGruff House Programs are absolutely necessary. Volunteer to help. Petty Officer Eric Tyler is the POC for the McGruff House and Mike Kelly, Mayor of Marshall Park is the POC for the Neighborhood Watch.

And it pays great dividends to be informed. Call into 24-CRIME to find out what incidents have happened in your neighborhood or in the installation at large. The report also provides crime tips to help you fight crime and keep safe. The crime report gets updated on a regular basis. Let's help each other stay safe and secure. Thanks for listening.

Army senior leaders expect dignity, respect for all soldiers

By Secretary of the Army Louis Caldera and Chief of Staff Eric Shinseki

Service in our Army is honorable and respected by the citizens of this country. Soldiers who offer their commitment and their lives in this service should and must be treated with dignity, honor and respect. Respect for our fellow soldiers demands that we speak with respect for all. Any derogatory words about any group, including those based upon sexual orientation, that are prejudicial to good order and discipline, may subject the soldier to adverse administrative actions or disciplinary measures under the UCMJ. Every soldier has the right to expect treatment consistent with our core values, a safe and secure environment, and the support of their chain of command. Whenever we violate the trust of any soldier, we violate the trust of all soldiers.

We affirm that treating soldiers with dignity and respect is a bedrock value for the army. We declare that there is no room for harassment or threats to any soldier in our army for any reason. Therefore, as the senior leaders of the Army, we are determined to continue to implement the "Don't ask, Don't tell" policy with equity and fairness to all of our soldiers.

Finally, we continue to expect that all soldiers in the United States Army will be treated with dignity and respect at all times, and will be afforded a safe and secure environment in which to live and work. Harassment of soldiers for any reason, to include perceived sexual orientation, will not be tolerated. We expect commanders at every level to take appropriate action to prevent harassment or threats against any member of our Army. Once again we are determined to continue to implement the "Don't ask, Don't tell" policy with fairness to all because that is the right thing to do for our soldiers.

Retiree tax help available

Retirement-eligible active duty and reserve service members, and those already retired – regardless of rank – can now view The Retired Officers Association's annual income tax guide on the internet.

The guide provides current tax information on military retired pay, the Survivor Benefit Program, disability compensation, and how federal and state tax laws affect those concerned. SBP is also addressed in terms of federal estate tax law.

A new "Tax Information-Potpourri" section provides web site addresses for state tax rates and forms, and web site addresses and telephone numbers for states taxing military retired pay and SBP.

The document TROA's Tax Guide for 1999 Returns is at www.troa.org/TaxGuide.asp. It is also available in fact sheet form at www.troa.org/FactSheets/2000TaxGuide.asp.

TROA is the nation's fourth largest veterans' organization. Membership is open to current and former uniformed service officers and warrant officers in the active duty, reserve, and National Guard forces. You do not have to be retired to join. (Courtesy of The Retired Officers Association)

Information on Army Vision on-line

Soldiers can now get information about the Army Vision and the status of the ongoing transformation.

The Army Vision web page is accessible from the Army Homepage on the left-hand toolbar by clicking on "The Army Vision," or by going direct to www.army.mil/armyvision.

Secretary of the Army Louis Caldera and Chief of Staff Eric Shinseki announced the new Army Vision in October. It dictates how the Army will move to a faster, more agile force for the future.

"The Vision web page will serve as a one-stop source for information and the latest developments as the Army continues to transition to the new vision. (It's) a continuous work in progress, and we will add new material to the page as it becomes available," said Maj. Scott K. Hays, one of the developers of the site.

Hays stressed the web page is not only for soldiers, but also for members of the public who want to follow the transformation.

Topics include the Army Vision statement, a "What's New" section to highlight recent changes or additions to the site, Vision briefings and publications and frequently asked questions and answers.

There are also relevant news releases and Army News Service articles, speeches and interviews with senior Army leaders, and links to associated web pages. (Courtesy of Army News Service)

SJA office provides series of tax tips for military

The following are a portion of the tax tips provided by the Staff Judge Advocate's office created for military personnel. The series of Tax Tips will continue through much of the tax preparation season.

TAX TIP: In calculating whether I qualify for the earned income credit, what entitlements must I include? You must add "earned income" (wages, salaries, tips, and other employee compensation) with your quarters allowance (minimum BAH) (whether or not actually received), subsistence (BAS) and combat pay. You do not include VHA or COLA. This will be indicated on the Form W-2, Box 13, Q.

TAX TIP: When should I receive my W-2 forms from my employers? Not later than 31 January. By federal law, employers have until this date to furnish you your W-2 forms.

TAX TIP: When should I receive my statements of dividends and interest from my financial institutions? Not later than 31 January. By federal law, financial institutions have until this date to furnish you these statements.

TAX TIP: What should I do if I do not receive a W-2 from my employer or statements of dividends/interest from my financial institutions by 31 January? Write the employer and if this fails, write the IRS Center that services the employer/institution and complain to them. Contact the Legal Assistance Office for the IRS Center address.

TAX TIP: The W-2 income report I received in the mail has a huge computer error. It shows I earned $200,000 rather than $20,000. Can I just ignore the extra zero? Only if you want to hear from the IRS. Since your employer sent the same W-2 to the IRS, they will expect tax on $200,000. You should contact your employer and ask for a revised W-2.

TAX TIP: When do I have to make a contribution to an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) for a deduction on my 1999 tax return? Stateside and overseas taxpayers have until 15 April 2000. Soldiers stationed in a combat zone who have not already filed their federal income tax return may have a longer period and should contact a military attorney if they need tax advice on IRA contributions.

TAX TIP: Can I claim an IRA deduction on my tax return although I have not actually created one yet? Yes, if you in fact create one not later than 15 April 2000.

For more information on income tax filing, contact your unit tax representative.

Tax advisors can assist in military tax preparation

Unit tax advisors have been trained in federal and state tax preparation to help active duty military personnel and their family members prepare and file federal and state tax returns free of charge. Eligible filers should seek assistance from the designated tax advisor of their unit. Through the Staff Judge Advocate Tax Center, returns prepared by unit tax advisors may be electronically filed for quicker refunds. The Tax Center will open for assistance beginning Feb. 4, during normal duty hours. Questions regarding the Tax Assistance Program may be directed to the Tax Center in Building 275, at 242-6381.

Police offer parents' guide for children on their own

Your 10-year-old comes home from school at 3 p.m. and takes care of himself – gets a snack, talks on the phone, does homework, watches TV – until you get home at 6 p.m.

He's too old for day care, but far from grown up. You worry, but what can you do?

You're not alone.

Working parents – and that's the majority of American families today – share the anxiety, frustration, and even fear involved in leaving children "on their own" when school lets out, child care arrangements with neighbors and relatives break down, or there simply aren't any alternatives.

What can you do?

- ☐ Make sure your children are ready to care for themselves.
- ☐ Teach them basic safety rules.
- ☐ Know where your kids are, what they are doing, and who they are with.

Are they ready? Can your children:

- ☐ Be trusted to go straight home after school?
- ☐ Easily use the telephone, locks, and kitchen appliances?
- ☐ Follow rules and instructions well?
- ☐ Handle unexpected situations without panicking?
- ☐ Stay alone without being afraid?

Talk it over with them, and listen to their worries and ideas. Work out rules on having friends over, household chores, homework, and television. Remember, staying at home alone can build a child's self-esteem, sense of responsibility, and practical skills.

Teach your "home alone" children:

- ☐ How to call 9-1-1 or your area's emergency number, or call the operator.
- ☐ How to give directions to your home, in case of an emergency.
- ☐ To check in with you or a neighbor immediately after arriving home.
- ☐ To never accept gifts or rides from people they don't know well.
- ☐ How to use the door, window locks, and the alarm system if you have one.
- ☐ To never let anyone into the home without asking your permission.
- ☐ To never let a caller at the door or on the phone know that they're alone. They might instead say "Mom can't come to the phone right now."
- ☐ To carry a house key with them in a safe place, such as inside a shirt pocket or sock. Don't leave it under a mat or on a ledge.

- ☐ How to escape in case of fire.
- ☐ To not go into an empty house or apartment if things don't look right – a broken window, ripped screen, or opened door.
- ☐ To let you know about anything that frightens them or makes them feel uncomfortable.

Keep important numbers near the phone including Mom's or dad's work, neighbor, family friend who lives or works nearby, police, fire department, poison control center, paramedics and emergency help 911 or operator.

About curiosity

Are there things you don't want your children to get into? Take the time to talk to them about the deadly consequences of guns, medicines, power tools, alcohol, cleaning products. Make sure you keep these items in a secure place out of sight and locked up.

Take a stand

Work with schools, religious institutions, libraries, recreational and community centers, and local youth organizations to create programs that give children ages 10 and older a place to go and something to do after school – a "homework" haven, sports, craft classes, tutoring. Or what about a community improvement project that young people can design and carry out?

Ask your workplace to sponsor a survival skills class for employees' children. Kick it off with a parent-child breakfast or lunch.

Does your community have a crisis hotline service? Ask it to experiment with a "warm-line" that latchkey kids can call for help with homework or cooking, or just to talk.

Work with the phone company to distribute 9-1-1 cards with space for a child to write directions to his or her home and parents' work numbers.

Join a McGruff House or other block parent program in your community to offer children help in emergencies or frightening situations. A McGruff House is a reliable source of help for children in emergency or frightening situations. Volunteers must meet specific standards, including a law enforcement records check.

Programs are established locally as a partnership among law enforcement, schools, and community organizations. For information, call 801-486-8768.

Remember if you notice any suspicious activity and crime in your neighborhood, call the Presidio of Monterey Department immediately at 242-7851, 242-7852 or 242-7853. Explanation of classified ad policy

The following information is provided to explain and clarify policy for individuals who would like to publish classified ads in POM-Mart.

Military members, retirees and Department of Defense civilian employees with valid identification cards are authorized to place classified ads in the Community News.

To place an ad in the Community News, complete the form on the back page of the Community News and deliver it to the Public Affairs Office, Building 614, Room 142, Presidio of Monterey, 93944. Ads may also be sent via e-mail to the editor at wright@pom-emh1.army.mil. Individuals should be sure to include all information requested on the form, including the category of the ad.

Daytime work telephone numbers are for use by Community News staff only; they will not be listed in ads. Individuals may place up to three ads per household in different categories per issue. Each ad should not exceed 35 words; itemized property for sale should be valued at least $10.

The Community News staff will make every effort to publish ads accurately, but we reserve the right to edit ads to meet readability, format and space requirements. Report typographical errors to the editor, and they will be corrected in the next available issue.

Acceptable classified ads include items in the categories of Autos; Motorcycles; Trucks, Vans, Sport, RVs; Wanted; Sports Equipment; Entertainment, Music Items; Computers and Accessories; Lost and Found; Miscellaneous; Pets or Household Items. Items must be for one-time sale or for free – not for a profit-sharing venture of multiple items. The Community News does not take responsibility for items advertised.

Classified ads for businesses, rentals, free information, help for hire or tutoring, or illegal items are not authorized. Each ad will be published in three consecutive issues unless it is renewed or cancelled.

The date the ad was first published or renewed is printed in parentheses following each ad. For example, ads dated (01-28) will continue to run through the Feb. 25 issue. Classified ads may be renewed or cancelled by phone; however, new ads, additions or major changes to ads must be done in writing before the Wednesday deadline for the next issue. Deadlines are generally a week and a half prior to the next publication. When calling in reference to an ad, be sure to identify the category, first few words of the ad, phone number as printed and the date following the ad.

Deadline for the Feb. 11 issue is Wednesday; deadline for the Feb. 25 issue is Feb. 16.

Refer questions concerning this policy to the editor of the Community News at the Public Affairs Office, at 242-5104 or 242-6426.
